3 3. KIPP

See document: kipp.org

KIPP, the Knowledge Is Power Program, is a national network of free, open-enrollment, college-preparatory public schools with a track record of preparing students in underserved communities for success in college and in life. There are currently 109 KIPP schools in 20 states and the District of Columbia serving more than 32,000 students.

What We Do

KIPP builds a partnership among parents, students, and teachers that puts learning first. By providing outstanding educators, more time in school learning, and a strong culture of achievement, KIPP is helping all students climb the mountain to and through college.

4 4. EMBRACE

See document: embraceglobal.org

The Embrace mission and vision are simple ones.

The Infant Warmer is the first in a line of affordable products that Embrace will innovate for low income communities.

We are not alone in this fight to decrease infant mortality. In 1990, world leaders at the United Nations Millennium Summit pledged to reduce the deaths of children under 5 years of age by two thirds by 2015. The Embrace Infant Warmer is an innovation that will help families save their children, and governments work towards the United Nations Millennium Development goals.

7 7. KICKSTART

See document: kickstart.org

KickStart's mission is to help millions of people out of poverty. We promote sustainable economic growth and employment creation in Kenya and other countries. We develop and promote technologies that can be used by dynamic entrepreneurs to establish and run profitable small scale enterprises.

KickStart believes that self-motivated private entrepreneurs managing small-scale enterprises can play a dynamic role in the economies of developing countries.

These entrepreneurs can raise small amounts of capital ($100-$1,000 US) to start a new enterprise.

KickStart then helps them to identify viable business opportunities and access the technologies required to launch the new enterprises.

In addition to promoting small enterprise development, KickStart's technologies, expertise, and methods are widely applied throughout Africa to support programs in agriculture, shelter, water, sanitation, health, and relief.

8 8. BCORPORATION

See document: www.bcorporation.net

Certified B Corporations are a new type of corporation which uses the power of business to solve social and environmental problems.

B Lab, a nonprofit organization, certifies B Corporations, the same way TransFair certifies Fair Trade coffee or USGBC certifies LEED buildings.

B Corps, unlike traditional businesses:

- 1. Meet comprehensive and transparent social and environmental performance standards;
- 2. Meet higher legal accountability standards;
- 3. Build business constituency for public policies that support sustainable business.

Impact 30 (1-15)

There are over 450 Certified B Corporations across 60 different industries. From food and apparel for you and your family to attorneys and office supplies for your business, B Corporations are a diverse community with one unifying goal: to redefine success in business.

Through a company's public B Impact Report, anyone can access performance data about the social and environmental practices that stand behind their products.

9 9. ROOT CAPITAL

See document: index.html

Root Capital was formed in late 2000 to provide Private Equity in the technology and services sector.

Root Capital will generally make equity investments of between 1 million USD and 4 million USD in companies with revenues of between 1 million and 50 million USD, and is able to lead much larger deals with known co-investors. Root Capital relishes challenging deals, including public-to-privates, distressed situations and businesses which need major changes to improve their underlying strength and value.

In all cases, Root Capital works closely with management and becomes extremely hands-on with all aspects of a business. We contribute a unique mix of hands-on operational know-how, sector specialisation and investment experience, unlike most other private equity firms. The team is able to react swiftly, decisively and creatively to new opportunities as they arise.

Root Capital was incubated at the EcoLogic Development Fund, a nonprofit that focuses on environmentally minded businesses.

It provides trade credit to the "missing middle" -- businesses like coffee-farmer collectives that are too small for commercial banks but too large for microfinance.

12 12. CHARITY: WATER

See document: www.charitywater.org

charity: water is a non-profit bringing clean and safe drinking water to people in developing nations

Almost a billion people live without clean drinking water. Unsafe water and lack of basic sanitation cause more deaths each year than all forms of violence, including war.* Children are especially vulnerable to this -- their small bodies can't handle the intense dehydration from diarrheal diseases.

In developing countries, women and children usually collect the water for their families. They walk miles each day to the nearest source, which is unprotected and likely to make them sick. Time spent walking keeps them from attending school, working or taking care of their families.

But clean water changes everything.

Safe drinking water alone can reduce water-related deaths by 21%.* Water projects built near home can restore hours to someone's day. Instead of walking for water, adults can use this time to work and children can use it to get an education. Families with enough clean water to drink, bathe, clean and grow their own food can become self-sufficient households, less affected by external conflict, famine or inadequate government services.
